

POLICE ALLEGED ARKELL WAS MIXED UP IN DYNAMITING THREATS

HELD $3700 INSURANCE POLICIES

Mrs. Donohue Had All Benefits Made for Her Husband-- Funeral to Be Wednesday.

The late Mrs. Alice Lucretia Donohue was insured for $3700 in different fraternal societies, all of the benefits of which go to her husband, Daniel Donohue.

She belonged to these societies:

Brooklyn Lodge of Rebekahs, No. 12, Oakland Assembly of Americans No. 2.

Oakland Court, No. 6, Tribe of Ben Hur.

Royal Neighbors of America.

Eastern Star.

She held two insurance policies in the Assembly of Americans, each for $1000, and payable to her husband. For two years she was vice-chairman of this order, and not only popular, but recognized as an authority on fraternal matters.

FUNERAL SERVICES.

Mrs. Donohue's sick benefits amounted to $25 a week from three of the lodges to which she belonged.

The funeral has been arranged for Wednesday, providing the coroner's inquest is concluded as rapidly as the authorities state it will be. The services will be held in the Finney undertaking parlors under the auspices of the Tribe of Ben Hur and the services at the grave site to be conducted by the Royal Neighbors of America.

ARRANGING DETAILS.

The arrangements for the funeral will be made by Mrs. May B. Adams, an intimate friend of the deceased, as soon as word is received from the relatives in Pennsylvania to whom Mr. Donohue telegraphed. If the relatives can come to the funeral the services will not be held until they arrive. The body will be wrapped in an American flag and placed within an hermetically sealed casket. At the funeral services the casket will be covered with the American flag to represent the order of the Oakland Assembly of Americans who have no burial services, which will be held under auspices of the Tribe of Ben Hur, Oakland Court, No. 6, and Brooklyn Rebekah Lodge, No. 12. Singers will be chosen from these two lodges.

The insurance policy held by Mrs. Alice Lucretia Donohue in Tribe of Ben Hur, Oakland Court, No. 6, was for $300.

Mrs. Alice Donohue carried a five hundred dollar insurance policy in the order of the Royal Neighbors of America, No. 832.

DUTCH HOT SHOT FOR CASTRO

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The reply of the Netherlands government to President Castro's communication last night, while it is understood in substance that the Dutch cruiser Gelderland did not salute the Venezuelan flag upon entering La Guaira because, under international naval practice, a war vessel does not salute a flag in a foreign port if she had entered that port and saluted within a year. The Gelderland had done this. Besides, it is declared, it was not known whether the forts would reply should the Gelderland salute them and all chance of further embarrassment was saved by the cruiser keeping within the international precedent of saluting once within a year.

As for the alleged insults to the Venezuelan consul at Willemstad, Island of Curacao, the man so entitled it is stated, was never acknowledged by the Netherlands as consul, hence he could not officially be styled consul and was, in consequence, simply as a citizen of Venezuela.

DONOHUE SOUGHT SPIRITS TO FIND HIS MISSING WIFE

Medium Points Out Spot Where Murdered Woman's Body Was Buried

D. H. Donohue, the heart-broken husband of the murdered woman, made use of every means in his power for the purpose of striving to get a clue to the whereabouts of his missing wife, and when all practical means had been tried without result, he had recourse to those who say that they commune with the spirit world and one of these was Mrs. J. N. Parsons, medium who resides at 128 Fifty-third street.

APPEALED TO HEAVEN.

Mrs. Parsons was the woman who yesterday stood on top of the mound grave of the murdered woman and with her arms outstretched toward heaven said: "I am attracted here by the body of Mrs. Donohue lies beneath my feet."

Within a few minutes the husband of the woman was fulfilled by the finding of the remains of the murdered victim. In a conversation with a TRIBUNE reporter this morning, Mrs. Parsons detailed the circumstances under which she came to go to the scene of the crime as also the fact that she had been consulted by Donohue on the purpose of success in finding his wife, the whereabouts of his wife and what she had told him in that regard.

SAID WIFE DID NOT ELOPE.

With respect to the inquiry made by Donohue the lady said: "It was quite on the seventh week, I think, of the disappearance of Mrs. Donohue that the husband came to me for a reading to see if he could learn where his wife had gone. I took him to my room. He was awfully nervous and I told him to calm himself down. It was some time before he was able to do that and when he became composed I said to him, as it comes back to me at this time, 'Don't you ever believe that your wife ever eloped with another man.' She never went to Oaklawn when she was away. She never went to Berkeley when she was away. I follow her in the direction of the pier (measuring the bay). She never left her home of her own free will. She left her home because she was forced away by some other person."

ENTERTAINED AT HOME.

"Then I said to him, 'Isn't it true that on the day that your wife left her home there were some people at your house? There were some people in your neighborhood who know where your wife is. When you find her will you find her not far away from your home. And that is one of the things.'

Regarding her appearance at the disinterment of the murdered woman yesterday, Mrs. Parsons said:

THE PROPHECY.

"I was asked to go there, especially, as I had been staying with Mr. Donohue, and I went. I stood upon a mound of black earth and I said, 'I am here.' And I pointed to a spot on the left side of a small ditch. Some persons there said that the officers had dug there yesterday and had found nothing. I told them that the digging should begin a few feet to the left."

TELLS HER STORY.

Mrs. Lewis told substantially the same story that she told at the preliminary examination. When asked if she ran at the sight of a gun in her husband's hand she lauded and replied:

"You beat your life I did."

Detective Quigley, who took the weapon from Lewis and placed him under arrest, declared that the husband was running Lewis out of the room with the revolver clamped by the belt and was evidently ready for business, and that he stopped at the door of the detective, handed him the weapon and said: "Well, I guess it's all up."

The case will probably go to the jury late this afternoon.

dine of 1218 Sixty-second street, an employee of the Oakland Meat Company, and who lives within three doors of the Donohue home and the house occupied by Arkell, across the street, received the threatening letter through the mails. Being unable to read the letter, Mondine, who is of foreign birth, and who was a soldier in the army of France, called in Mrs. D. Fessler, a next door neighbor, to cipher the message.

Overcome With Fright

Upon casting her eyes over the opening sentences of the black hand letter, Mrs. Fessler was overcome with fright and emotion, and with the permission of Mondine, hurriedly dressed herself in street attire and took the startling missive to police headquarters. The letter, which is apparently purposely rambling in places, and which is written in a cramped and disguised hand, is in part as follows:

"If you don't bring that lumber back you stole from me, I will see to it that you are lynched. If you don't bring back my stolen tools, I will blow you and your home high into the air with dynamite. And 'Be Quick About It.'

"That's my name."

Police at Work.

Arkell was a carpenter and lost some tools, he has claimed.

Owing to the recent dynamite outrages in this city, the police are hard at work on the black hand letter received by Mondine, being unable to determine at this time just how deeply the suspected man may be implicated in dynamite plots and outrages against life and property. It is not to be told that he is in any way suspected of having made threats through the missives to dynamite humans and property until after samples of his handwriting have been obtained. Owing to the seriousness of the crime of which he stands suspected, the detectives and other authorities on the case will, of course, run down every clue which points to the fact that Arkell is as bad a man as he has been painted.

Makes Strong Statement.

Charles Turner, timekeeper for the Oakland Meat Company who lives on Sixty-third street immediately across the block from the Mondine home on Sixty-second street, made a statement to a TRIBUNE reporter this morning: "Mondine has been in our employ for the past two years," said Turner this morning, "and I have always found him a conscientious and faithful employee. I have frequently received letters through the mails accusing some of the employees of the Oakland Meat Company of theft and dishonesty. Recently I received such a letter concerning Mondine, but in the letter it was recited that the author was not an employee of the meat company, but for me to get hold of him. It did not appear to me that he referred so much to alleged thefts from the company as he did to thefts committed on the writer's premises, whoever he may have been."

BECAME ALARMED.

"I did not pay much attention to the letter at first, but when Mondine came in all a-tremble and overcome with excitement and told me of the letter he had received, I became genuinely alarmed, not only for Mondine, but for myself and my own home, as I live so close to the house which was threatened with dynamite."

"It has been my good fortune in the past to discover the writers of anonymous letters, as they have been generally written by some employee of the firm who was jealous of some other employee. It was easy to run over the payroll and get the signatures of the men and compare them with the anonymous letter and then run down the guilty party."

BLACK HAND LETTER.

"Not so in this case, for the man is not employed by the meat company. Neither was Arkell. And this is the first letter I have ever seen which might be called a Black Hand letter or which threatens one of the men with death. Mondine and his wife are thoroughly alarmed. The couple has three children. He is a model father and the mother, so far as I can determine, is a good wife. They are foreigners, I admit, but they appear to be good citizens."

Mondine feels that he is living under a cloud and is fearful that his home will be blown skyward with the occupants at any time. Arkell is a carpenter and the references to stolen tools and lumber points the finger of suspicion at him to say the least.

"So far as I can determine, Arkell's

FRACTURES SKULL IN TUSSLE

Sheriff Begins Investigation as to Nature of Trouble Which May End Fatally for Clarence Moore.

The mysterious conduct of Clarence Moore, aged 29 years, an iron worker, who last night refused to permit Dr. George G. Reimle and Steward Harry Borchert of the Receiving Hospital to operate upon his fractured skull, and who is now lying in a comatose condition at Providence Hospital, has caused an investigation to be started by Sheriff Frank Barnes which may end in the trial of one or two men on a charge of murder.

Last evening Moore, accompanied by William McGuire and L. J. Smith, staggered into the Receiving Hospital and requested treatment for a bad locking wound on his head, near the base of the brain. Borchert cleaned the wound and upon close examination discovered that the injured man was suffering from a severe fracture of the skull.

SENDS FOR REIMLE.

Putting Moore to bed he telephoned quickly for Dr. Reimle, describing to him the nature of the wound. The physician arrived at the hospital a few minutes later and advised an operation, but Moore suddenly grew surly and refused all offers of assistance from the surgeons, demanding that he be taken to Providence Hospital. His mother and stepfather were notified of his condition and later accompanied the young man to the latter institution.

Moore stated to Steward Borchert that he had been in a tussle with McGuire on San Pablo avenue and had been struck in the head by a stone, the ground striking upon his head. This version of the story was watched by his companions for some time and was believed to be the truth. Later in the evening Borchert learned that the injured man had been mixed up in a blow with a club at the county line and that a blow with a club had caused the injury to his skull.

SHERIFF INVESTIGATES.

The following day, Saturday, Sheriff Barnes called on the man and the latter commenced a series of investigations which will probably end in some arrests being made. It is possible that Moore will not be charged with the offense because he was unconscious shortly after being placed in Providence Hospital and has not since regained his senses. Details of the affair at the county line have not yet been reported to the sheriff's office.

DEATH MAY DEFEAT LAW

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Death may defeat the processes of international law in the case of Robert Caldwell, known as the "Great American Affidavit Maker," who is wanted in England on a charge of perjury in connection with the celebrated Bruce case. Caldwell, who was born in 1845 and who failed physically and mentally after the famous trial in which a dukedom was the stake, is in the Manhattan State Asylum on Ellis Island. His condition is such that he probably will never leave the institution.

"Most of his time is spent in bed," said Dr. William Malagon, superintendent of the asylum. Yesterday, and he is very weak mentally and physically. There may be no immediate danger, but his condition is not promising."

CALLED PERJURER.

In the extradition proceedings, under which it was expected to take Caldwell back to England, a postponement was taken until August 2 and then the case postponed indefinitely on the report of Dr. Malagon. The English government represented by Charles Fox as attorney and the defense by James Fox, who had been before the United States Commission in Alexander, where the extradition hearing was to have been held.

By the decision of the court in the Bruce case the testimony of Caldwell as to his relations with the Duke of Portland was stamped as perjurious and proceedings to punish him for testifying falsely in affidavits were immediately instituted.

JEWS TO BUILD SCHOOLS FOR CRIMINALS OF RICE

Will Have Places for Members of Own Creed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—More than 500 of the 300 organizations affiliated with the Jewish organizations met and discussed ways and means of improving the conditions of juvenile Jewish criminals and delinquents and also to find some way to get hold of the children before they yielded to temptation and are then taken in hand by the authorities.

The idea is that the Jews should get together and provide institutions of their own where these children can be taken and reformed by men and women of their own race and creed.

HOW THE BODY OF MRS. DANIEL DONOHUE WAS DISCOVERED

Small Boys, Fox Terrier and a Medium

A strange combination of spiritualistic medium, the sagacity of a fox terrier, and the avarice of two boys to secure the $100 reward offered by Daniel Donohue in THE TRIBUNE Sunday morning for the recovery of his wife's body, dead or alive, resulted yesterday in the unearthing of her remains near the furniture factory and within a few feet of where her clothing had been found on Saturday.

Mrs. J. H. Parsons, of Fifty-second street, a medium, went to the factory on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock in company with G. D. Ingorsoll, a detective, in the District Attorney's office, and standing at the southwest corner of the building, shut her eyes, raised her hands to heaven and declared that the body was to be found just where she was standing.

With five minutes after Mrs. Parsons had made her declaration, Frank Walsh, a sixteen-year-old boy, living with his stepfather, William W. Smith, and his mother on Sixty-third street, within a stone's throw of where the body was found, went to work with a shovel. He had thrown about 2 feet of earth when he was seen to reel backwards and place his hand quickly to his nose. He had been overcome by the odor which had been released by the spade from the wet grave in which the body of the murdered woman had been crowded.

As young Walsh stepped backward the shovel was taken from his hands by Tony Figone, who lives with his parents on Sixty-second street. After throwing out a few shovelfuls of earth, he saw the sleeve of a kimono, red in color, protruding from the ooze in which the body was enveloped.

The news of the discovery spread like wildfire. In a few moments a large crowd was at the spot and strong men, who had given up all hope that the body would be found in the neighborhood, took up the work where the boys had left off and in a very few minutes had unearthed one of the most ghastly sights ever pictured in human eyes.

Young Walsh went to his home in a half-fainting condition. Tony Figone, overcome with sight, that the body was lying in the left, followed by a number of his boy companions, while the women, drawn to the spot out of curiosity, hurried back to their homes, sick in body and mind. Immediately after the discovery of the body, which was in a deplorable condition from mud stains and decay, the Coroner's office was notified and Chief Deputy Coroner Sergeant and Deputy Robinson went to the scene and removed the body to the Morgue where an inquest is to be held.

BOY'S AMBITION.

Ever since the discovery of the clothing under the Western Furniture Manufacturing Company's place, Frank Walsh has felt certain that he would be the person who would find the body and gain the reward of $100 offered for its recovery by the husband, Daniel Donohue.

All Saturday night he tossed in his sleep, restless with strange dreams which seemed to point out to him the hiding place of the murdered woman. Sunday morning he begged his mother to be allowed to go and dig in search of the body, saying that he knew a spot where the earth had been recently disturbed.

HAS INSOMNIA.

Owing to the fact that he suffers from insomnia, and that any sight out of the ordinary affects him strangely, his mother at first objected, but after his pleadings, gave him a shovel which she had hidden from him and allowed him to follow out his desire to search for the remains.

Strange to say, the boy had a presentiment, as had the medium before him, as to where the body would be found and, picking up the shovel, he went directly to the spot which had been left but a short time before by Mrs. Parsons. He had dug but a short time when the shovel struck something soft and yielding, and he knew that the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Mrs. Donohue had been solved.

HIS STORY.

"I knew all the time that I would find that body," said Frank Walsh to a TRIBUNE reporter. "All along something has told me

FRANK WALSH and his dog, Daisy, who dug up the body. They were the ones who discovered the missing woman's clothing on Saturday.

printed about in yesterday's TRIBUNE.

HAD PREMONITION

"Mother and all of us have felt strangely about the way I felt concerning the spot where the body was buried, but I not only buried there, but in the daytime I could seem to see her form lying under the ground. It must have been what you call a presentment. I could not rest all night and was awfully disappointed when mother told me this morning that I couldn't have the shovel, but I was glad when she finally changed her mind, for I knew I would soon clear up the mystery. The boys can laugh at me if they want to, but I am telling the truth when I say that I had a presentment where the body would be found.

"Maybe the thing was so firmly fixed in my mind by finding the soft spot in the earth that I think it was a presentment, but as the affair has turned out, it shows that I was right in my belief."

SEARCH BEGAN.

The search began at a point within a few feet of the southern end on the western side of the manufacturing plant referred to above.

At this same point Saturday afternoon several spadefuls of earth were removed and a hole in two places, a couple of feet in depth were dug.

The search commenced there Sunday, for the reason that the ground, a black doby, was soft, while all the rest of the surface in the surrounding open area was hard enough to require the use of a pick in order to render a shovel serviceable at all.

HUSBAND OVERCOME

"I don't know now who he murderer is, but I have my suspicions. I am anxious to find him out. I—"

But Donohue was unable to finish the sentence because he broke down and cried piteously.

The body of Mrs. Donohue had been disinterred in the meantime. It was found lying in the hastily improvised grave, crumpled up almost in two. The grave was about four feet deep and less than five feet long. The head was thrust forward on the chest, and the feet were doubled over and pressed against the chest.

There are no residences for quite a distance east on the same street and nobody would be likely to feel like traveling westward beyond the factory at night time, unless called thither by important about only 2 feet away from the business because of the extreme loneliness of the place.

BIG CROWD.

The unearthing of the dead body was witnessed by several hundred people, and intense indignation was depicted on the face of every onlooker when the evidence of the horrible crime was presented to view.

The Coroner was notified and the remains were taken to the Morgue.

At the same time, Captain Petersen and Captain Lynch, with Donohue, the husband of the murdered woman, rode in the automobile to Oakland.

Captain Petersen was asked by THE TRIBUNE representative as to who was suspected of the murder, and replied that he would have to talk about that later.

BODY PARTLY NAKED

There was no covering on the upper part of the body when it was dragged from its cozy bed, save the ordinary undergarments. The lower extremities were covered with a dark skirt and underwear such as was worn by the woman on the night of her disappearance.

The woman on the night of her disappearance.

It was by her clothing that the body was identified. Daniel Donohue, the husband, was present when the body of his wife, the face so terribly distorted from mortification as to be unrecognizable, was dragged from the slimy resting place. He was overcome with emotion and would have fallen to the ground had it not been for the supporting arm of a friend.

SEARCH BEGAN.

SECLUDED SPOT.

A more secluded place could not have been selected for the hiding of evidence for such a crime, for the reason that the furniture factory is the last structure on Sixty-second street before the oil refineries, the railroad track and slaughter-houses of Butchertown are reached.

There are no residences for quite a distance east on the same street and nobody would be likely to feel like traveling westward beyond the factory at night time, unless called thither by important about only 2 feet away from the business because of the extreme loneliness of the place.

To save an expense of $498 to the county, Kelley suggested that the above named committee be appointed to act on the matter of the plumbing and report as to the adequacy of the work done.

MAY RECALL PROBATION OF MAN

Fred J. Stephenson, Who Pleaded Guilty to Stealing Diamonds in This City, Arrested in Santa Cruz.

Probation Officer Christopher Russel appeared before Superior Judge Ogden this morning with a petition that the parole granted some weeks ago to Fred J. Stephenson be revoked, and that the prisoner, who is now under arrest at Santa Cruz, be returned to Oakland and tried on a charge of grand larceny, which is pending against him.

The action of the probation was the result of a letter received from Samuel L. Lee at Santa Cruz, stating that Stephenson, who had gone there with the consent of Russel, had been caught in the act of stealing and had been placed under arrest by the sheriff of that county. Lee was one of the men who appeared in Stephenson's behalf at the time that Judge Ogden admitted the man to probation.

KLEPTOMANIA

The letter from Lee said "that Stephenson is afflicted with kleptomania and cannot overcome his desire to appropriate things which do not belong to him. He was arrested in Oakland a few months ago on the charge of grand larceny. He had been a detective for many years and it was difficult to him to constant association with crooked men to overcome the criminal instinct in his own mind. Stephenson asked that he be placed upon probation, promising to give up his profession of sleuth and turn to mechanical work of some character. In this showing and the guarantee of several friends, Judge Ogden granted his request.

STOLE TWO SKIRTS.

The crime for which Stephenson has been arrested in Santa Cruz is the theft of two silk skirts, valued at $6 each. His wife, when questioned by the police, admitted that she had no use for the garments and did not know what motive her husband might have in taking them from the store. In view of this fact, Russel now feels that the longer parole for the man is dangerous and has asked for his recall. Judge Ogden ordered that the parole be revoked and that a deputy sheriff be sent to Santa Cruz for the offender.

FIND FRANKLIN SCHOOL IS SAFE

Citizens Inspect Building and Declare Structure Is in Good Condition.

Fears that the parents of school children have entertained regarding the welfare of their children while confined in school buildings related to the safety committee have been partly allayed by the investigation of the Franklin grammar school building, which was inspected by a committee of interested citizens Saturday. This committee, accompanied by City Superintendent of Schools McLymond, School Director Cook and Architect Stone, reported the building to be in a safe and satisfactory condition.

Reports of the unsafe condition of the building had prompted East Oakland patrons of schools to demand the inspection of the building. So alarmed and scared became that they threatened to withdraw their children. Although an official inspection had been ordered, the patrons resolved themselves into an investigation committee and proceeded to examine the structure. A lengthy survey failed to bring forth any serious defects in the construction, it is stated.

SUBSTANTIAL WALLS.

The walls were found to be substantial as well as the steel work. One occasion for the alarm was the condition of the steel rods in the top story, which are placed solely to support the netting, and are not intended to add strength to the building.

The Clinton Improvement Club, independent of the superintendent of schools, delegated a committee composed of Frank Wilkinson, Kenneth McTavish and A. Wahstrom to inspect the building last Saturday. As yet they have failed to make any report to the Board of Education.

THORNE INQUEST NEXT WEDNESDAY

Insanity Thought to Have Been Cause of Suicide, but Investigation Will Be Made.

An inquest into the death of Stephen Thorne, who committed suicide Thursday afternoon through fear of approaching insanity, will be conducted by Coroner Wade today afternoon at 1 o'clock.

While insanity is conceded to be the cause of the act by all persons familiar with the case, the coroner's jury, an intimate friend of the dead man, will investigate Thorne's accounts that he may satisfy any patrons of the bank who may entertain any doubts.

ARRESTS A BURGLAR BUT DIDN'T KNOW IT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—When William Thomas, known to the police as a professional burglar and all around bad boy, broke into the saloon of Dunn Brothers at 1118 Market street, broke open the till and stole money, stamps and revolver, he impulsively placed the gun in his hip pocket, thereby causing his undoing.

He was walking jauntily along Fourth street at 6 a.m. when Policeman M. F. Green noticed something in his hip pocket and on searching him found the revolver and charged him at the southern station, with a cry of "concealed weapons."

SAFES STOLEN

At 4 a.m. William Dunn, one of the proprietors of Dunn Brothers saloon, noticed Policeman J. J. Crowley of the boundary of his place.

PLANS FOR SUBWAY UNDER ESTUARY TO BE PREPARED

Supervisors Order County Surveyor to Proceed With Work at Once

The project of Supervisor Joseph M. Kelley to have a sub-way under the estuary at the Webster street bridge, thus effectually preventing railway collisions and at the same time permitting shipping interests free access to the outer harbor, received fresh impetus this morning at the meeting of the Board of Supervisors. The county surveyor was directed to make an estimate of the cost of the contemplated improvement and report to the board at his earliest convenience.

For some time this proposed improvement had been held in abeyance because of the lack of funds. The way is now cleared for the work, which will undoubtedly be authorized, on making plans and specifications be made.

On motion of Supervisor Kelley, seconded by Horner, a resolution directing that the county surveyor make an immediate report was adopted.

The action of the probation was the result of a letter received from Samuel Lee at Santa Cruz, stating that Stephenson, who had gone there with the consent of Russel, had been caught in the act of stealing and had been placed under arrest by the sheriff of that county. Lee was one of the men who appeared in Stephenson's behalf at the time that Judge Ogden admitted the man to probation.

The letter from Lee said "that Stephenson is afflicted with kleptomania and cannot overcome his desire to appropriate things which do not belong to him. He was arrested in Oakland a few months ago on the charge of grand larceny. He had been a detective for many years and it was difficult to him to constant association with crooked men to overcome the criminal instinct in his own mind. Stephenson asked that he be placed upon probation, promising to give up his profession of sleuth and turn to mechanical work of some character. In this showing and the guarantee of several friends, Judge Ogden granted his request.

The crime for which Stephenson has been arrested in Santa Cruz is the theft of two silk skirts, valued at $6 each. His wife, when questioned by the police, admitted that she had no use for the garments and did not know what motive her husband might have in taking them from the store. In view of this fact, Russel now feels that the longer parole for the man is dangerous and has asked for his recall. Judge Ogden ordered that the parole be revoked and that a deputy sheriff be sent to Santa Cruz for the offender.

More of Heney's Peculiar Tactics.

The prosecution is apparently proceeding in the Ruef case, as was done in the Schmitz trial, to secure a conviction by overriding law and precedent, well knowing that a conviction so obtained will be nullified by the higher courts. It seems that the lesson that the ministers of the law must proceed lawfully has not yet impressed itself upon the persons who have presumed to take charge of the administration of justice in San Francisco, for they are going ahead as if they were not aware that convictions obtained by violating statutory provisions and the fundamental principles governing established usage are worthless, and that the time, money, and effort spent in securing them are wasted.

Ruef is entitled to the same rights the law guarantees every person officially charged with crime: no less, no more. His rights in this particular cannot be measured by his general character and reputation, and they cannot be successfully denied. As they will ultimately be accorded him, whether he is guilty or innocent, they might as well be conceded to him at the start. Indeed, it would be far better, for then a verdict of guilty would stand, and there would be a saving of much time and money. Heney cannot deprive him of any right guaranteed by law, not alone to him, but to all persons accused of crime, by calling him the greatest criminal of the age. Admit that the statement be true, and the law still stands.

In prosecuting a criminal, no matter how abandoned and guilty he may be, the ministers of justice have no more right to violate the law to secure a conviction than the criminal had to violate the law in the first instance. The law claims obedience from all, particularly from those who are charged with its enforcement. The officer who is the creature and enforcer of the law is a traitor to it and false to his oath when he violates it. His power ceases the moment he transends it or attempts to stretch its warrant.

It is unfortunate, perhaps, that the majesty and inviolability of the law should be invoked in behalf of a man like Ruef, but judges cannot dispense with the binding obligations of their office or the sacred impartiality their functions impose that a particular end in a particular case, however desirable, may be reached by irregular process in contravention of the very authority which gives them power and jurisdiction.

But above and beyond, the merits of the case at bar, the personality of Ruef or the designs of those who are prosecuting him is the necessity for holding the law true to its letter and purpose, and those who administer it within the scope of their authority; for restraining them from infringing the rights conferred by the law and the assumption of lawless powers.

For more than a generation it has been the universal practice in the courts of California for the prosecution to take the initiative in questioning talesmen summoned for examination as jurors in criminal cases. There may be no specific warrant in the law for this practice, but it has the sanction of established custom. Certainly there is no reason to depart from it. Moreover, as it devolves upon the prosecution to bring the accused to bar, and to affirmatively establish his guilt, it seems to be altogether in harmony with justice and the whole proceeding for the State to take the initiative in examining talesmen touching their qualifications as jurors. The plaintiff does it in civil trials. And if there is no special warrant in the law requiring the prosecution to take the initiative, neither is there any provision requiring the accused to take the initiative. Also the accused has precedent and a certain element of fair play in his favor.

In the Ruef case, Judge Lawlor has, at the instance of Francis J. Heney, set aside the established usage of California courts and required the defendant to take the initiative in examining talesmen. Why this resort to irregular method? Is it in the interests of fair play? It imports a new question of legality of process into the trial that may perhaps vitiate the whole proceeding. Ever since he took upon himself the role of prosecutor, Heney has been resorting to irregular expedients and promulgating bizarre construction of the law wholly at variance with the construction hitherto accepted by the courts. In the Schmitz trial he put the main point of his case in as rebuttal and shut off cross-examination by a sharp trick which Judge Dunne approved and abetted. The Appellate Court declared this proceeding illegal. Had Schmitz not been under the ban of press, pulpit, and popular opinion, it would have provoked a storm of public indignation. As it was, the duty of undoing a work accomplished by irregular and unlawful methods devolved upon the higher courts, which were immediately assailed by the organs and partisans of the graft prosecution as being actuated by improper motives and influences.

Now we have a repetition in the Ruef case of the irregular methods that nullified the proceedings in the Schmitz trial. What legitimate excuse is there for departing from established precedent in this more than any other case? Do Heney and Lawlor propose to revolutionize the prevailing practice in California courts?

This ruling of Lawlor's cannot be separated from his ruling in the contempt proceedings recently instituted against William J. Burns and his peculiar servitors. Burns and his satellites were accused of tampering with veniremen who are likely to be called as jurors. Under false pretenses and fictitious names these veniremen were called upon and induced by him and persuasion to express opinions on collateral matters in a way that would afford the prosecution an idea of what they would do in the jury box. Attempts were made to disqualify those who appeared to be lacking in sympathy and enthusiasm for the prosecution. One may be sure there was no attempt to disqualify those who expressed themselves as favorable to Spreckels and Heney and unfavorable to Ruef, or any of the persons indicted at the instance of the so-called graft prosecution. The fact that the veniremen, or a large number of them at least, have been thus tried out by the secret agents of the prosecution was clearly established in court, so clearly indeed that Heney and Burns were compelled to admit the truth.

Yet Judge Lawlor said no contempt was committed. The veniremen so quizzed and badgered are the men who will appear to be examined as jurors to try Ruef, and Judge Lawlor has decided that Ruef must take the initiative in examining them. In doing this he is violating the established rule of practice. Is it done with good intent or with any desire to give the defendant such a fair trial as the law guarantees him?

There is no more despicable and cowardly crime in the calendar than packing a jury against a defendant, no proceeding more destructive of justice and the purposes of the law, none so obviously cowardly and unfair. Taking Judge Lawlor's ruling in the Burns contempt case together with his more recent one overriding the usage requiring the prosecution to take the initiative in examining talesmen, and they convey a broad inference of intent to pack the jury. If Ruef were a hundred times the scoundrel he is alleged to be, such a proceeding would be infamous and unlawful.

But what call is there for such questionable methods? Why cannot the prosecution proceed in a regular manner as the law directs and as precedent prescribes? The public is tired and disgusted with these peculiar tactics, this cloud of chicane, intrigue and subterfuge. The people want a square deal. Justice is not to be served by crookedness, conspiracies and irregular expedients strongly suggestive of criminal design.

Piety Versus the Automobile.

An Oregon congregation has taken umbrage at the pastor because he has purchased an automobile. They merely murmured disapprobation when he bloomed out in a ten-dollar silk hat, but they broke into open mutiny when he flashed a red automobile on them. He was altogether too swift and modern to suit their ideas of religious propriety. They cannot conceive how a man who whirls along the highway at the rate of fifty miles an hour can really be moral, upright and sincerely devoted to God's service.

The same question arose some years ago when the bicycle first came into popular use. A great many pious people regarded it as ungodly, if not positively sacrilegious, for clergymen to ride bicycles. They could not believe a man who employed such a profane and undignified means of locomotion was fit to preach the Word of God. Back in Minnesota, not long since, a pastor was dismissed by his flock because his wife went through the cakewalk at a Sunday-school picnic with the Sunday-school superintendent.

Some people have queer ideas of what constitutes piety and what constitutes sin, or impiety. And the objection to riding on bicycles and in automobiles illustrates the tenacity with which a certain class of the ungodly cling to the non-essentials of religion. For a clergyman to laugh heartily is regarded by many as evidence of a wicked mind.

Less than a generation ago a Methodist minister was brought severely to book for singing a comic song at a social gathering in the house of one of his congregations. On another occasion a clergyman shocked and outraged the religious sensibilities of many pious souls by reciting some of Artemas Ward's humorous skits to relieve the tedium of a steamboat voyage, to such an extent as to excite a serious, if not learned and instructive discussion in the religious press.

An ancient notion still survives that the clergy should lead joyless lives of poverty and discomfort; that their clothes should never fit, and that they should refrain from healthy, innocent sport, and suppress all inclination to be gay and happy. It is a queer idea that the teachers of God's Word should be exemplars of a gloomy, ascetic existence that no normal person would care to lead. It has no warrant in scripture. There is nothing in the Bible that, by implication even, forbids man to enjoy himself in a rational manner and give zest to life, as well as lightness and gaiety by indulging in harmless recreations and amusements.

Surely the Creator never meant that obedience to His laws condemned men to gloomy countenances, sour spirits, and useless self-denial. This is a bright, happy world of cheerful spirits and joyous inspiration. Why should not the pious laugh and sing and be merry after a sane and wholesome fashion? If joy be regarded as the exclusive inheritance of the wicked, the ranks of the godly will grow very thin. Man is a creature of healthy animal spirits which will effervesce and find play despite the forbidding proprieties prescribed by a theology of gloom and tragedy.

In his valedictory sermon, Rev. Ernest E. Baker told his congregation a number of wholesome truths. It is a pity he delayed the telling so long. He had plenty of opportunity during the eight years he occupied the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church to say the things he so frankly said in his farewell sermon. But better late than never, which does not imply, however, that the truth is the last thing to be told.

Franklin Matthews, a correspondent who accompanied the Atlantic fleet on its cruise around the continent, has published an account of the voyage under the title of "The Battle Fleet." He narrates an entertaining story, but a more accurate title for it would have been "A Voyage of Peace in the Panoply of War." While speaking softly, we are showing the nations of the earth that we carry a big stick. Gentle manners and a good right arm are great peacemakers.

SWIMS HALF MILE, TOWING BOATS CONTAINING NINE

Policeman Accomplishes Remarkable Feat.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Dragging two heavy rowboats containing nine people through the water after him, Julius Leck, the doorman of the Delaney street police station, swam the half-mile distance from the Blackwell's Island light to the Cygnet Boat Club at the foot of East Eighteenth street, Manhattan, in 36 minutes yesterday, among much excitement among his fellow members, the passengers on the boats and a crowd of 500 spectators in East River Park.

The tow rope was tied over his left and under his right shoulder. He swam the English side stroke, pushing ahead, his left shoulder submerged every time he took a stroke with his right arm. Until his toes struck a submerged moment, his dead weight of almost 300 pounds pulled him back every time he took a stroke forward and the tow rope wore a red bruise through the shoulder of his jersey long before he got through.

KILLED IN PRISON FOR TURNING KING'S EVIDENCE

Shot by Fellow Prisoners While in His Cell.

CALCUTTA, Aug. 31.—Gossans, a native who was arrested with thirty others for complicity in the recent Bombay outrages and who turned King's evidence, was today killed by his fellow prisoners in his cell at the Arigul jail. The evidence given by Gossans reveals widespread rebellious conspiracy, which included plans to assassinate the viceroy, Lord Minto and other high officials.

The revolvers with which the man was killed were smuggled into the prison by relatives of the other prisoners.

GIVE HEARTY WELCOME TO FLEET

Great Crowds Throng City of Melbourne; Bridge Barriers Give Away and Several People Are Hurt.

MELBOURNE, Aug. 31.—The enormous crowd that turned out to witness the formal entry of the American sailors this morning, proved too much for the Princess Bridge, which spans the Yarra river and forms the main approach to the city proper. The bridge barriers were overborne and as a result several people were slightly injured.

At the exhibition buildings to welcome Admiral Sperry and the officers and men of the fleet were Lord Northcote, the governor general of Australia; Sir Thomas Gibson-Carmichael, governor of Victoria, the Federal and State ministers; Vice-Admiral Sir Richard Poore, commanding the British Australian squadron and representatives of other Australian states.

In his speech of welcome the prime minister, Alfred Deakin, said:

"We can offer you nothing more in the way of friendship than a hearty Australian welcome."

In his reply, Admiral Sperry said that the reception given the fleet in New Zealand seemed unsurpassable. In Sydney it was even better, but the climax had been reached in Melbourne.

HARRIMAN IS TO VISIT S. F. SOON

Magnate's Sojourn at Pelican Lake to End—Important Matters to Be Considered.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—After a sojourn of several weeks at Pelican bay, E. H. Harriman is preparing to take up once more his manifold duties in the railroad world. Word was received here yesterday that Harriman would leave the lake about the middle of the present week. He will reach the main line at Wead and will go to Portland by way of Grant's Pass and Albany. After a short stay in Portland the railway magnate will visit Seattle to inspect the new terminals he recently acquired there.

IMPORTANT MATTERS.

The plans of the Harriman party contemplated another stop at San Francisco, the important magnate having the head of the Southern Pacific. The titan will be accompanied on his tour of the coast by William F. Herlin. No date has been set for the visit to San Francisco, but it is the present intention to come here direct from Seattle.

From San Francisco the Harriman special will run down the State and into Mexico where a careful inspection will be made of the new lines built during the last year in the north. The entire situation as it affects the Harriman properties in Mexico will be studied and a final decision reached in regard to the projected lines.

MEXICAN SITUATION.

The Mexican situation is one of the most important that now confronts the Harriman roads. An extensive policy of expansion has been mapped out, and it awaits merely the formal approval of the chief.

The outing at Pelican lake has been thoroughly enjoyed both by the railroad builder and his boys. It is stated that were it not for the pressing engagements of a business nature Harriman would extend his stay well beyond the month. Further improvements to be made at the lake will make it one of the most attractive estates in the west.

BAG OF GOLD DISAPPEARS WHEN WOMAN DIES

CONFESSES HE TOOK COIN

Ownership of Money Now in Safe Deposit Will Probably Be Decided By Court.

The mysterious disappearance of a bag of gold, said to contain in the neighborhood of $6000 or $1000, has caused an arrangement between William Stutt and his brother-in-law, Gabriel Sanderson, whom he accuses of having appropriated the sack without due process of law.

The incidents were brought to the attention of Superior Judge William H. Waste this morning when the will of Catherine Stutt, deceased, was filed for probate. William Stutt, husband of the testator, was placed upon the stand by Attorney Carl Abbott, and declared that his wife, upon her departure for the hospital, had in her possession a bag of gold-pieces which he estimated to weigh several pounds. After her death the sack mysteriously disappeared, until, passing his brother-in-law's room one evening, he saw the latter counting over the money, with the identical sack beside him on the table.

MONEY IN SAFE.
Sanderson, called to the witness stand, refused at first to state where the money was or how much the bag contained. Eventually, however, he admitted that he had deposited the contents in the Oakland Central Bank, where it is at the present time. Judge Waste admitted the will to probate, and granted letters of administration to the husband. An action to recover the money will undoubtedly be commenced in due time.

STRANGE SUICIDE UNIDENTIFIED

May be Divorced Husband of Late Niece of the Late Marshall Field.

PITTSBURG. Aug. 31.—The authorities are hard at work today in an endeavor to clear up the mystery surrounding the suicide of the unknown man who, after having destroyed his features with carbolic acid, drowned himself in the Monongahela river at McKeesport one week ago. It is claimed here today that the body is either that of a divorced husband of a niece of the late Marshall Field of Chicago, or of F. D. S. Bethune, the New York attorney who has been strangely missing for about two weeks.

HAVE CLEW TO MISSING MAN.

CHICAGO. Aug. 31.—Relatives of F. D. S. Bethune, the missing New York lawyer, are hopeful that trace of him will be found from a clew on which detectives are now working.

Mr. Bethune is at the Auditorium Annex in a highly nervous condition. Her brother-in-law, F. T. Foote, of New York, is with her and declared today that the theory that the mysterious McKeesport suicide, whose identity is unknown, might be Bethune has been carefully investigated and discarded.

DROPS APPEAL; PAYS HER FINE

Young Berkeley Woman Was Convicted of Disturbing the Peace.

Los Angeles, Aug. 31.—A young woman from Berkeley, who was last week adjudged guilty of disturbing the peace by Justice Robert Edgar and fined $100, was this morning on the dockets of the Superior Court on an appeal. Attorney Elmer N. D. Noyes, who represented the woman, stated that his client had decided to dismiss the appeal, however, and was prepared to pay the fine. Upon the assurance that this was the only charge pending against Miss Lane, Judge Ogden instructed the clerk to accept the fine and dismiss the appeal from Edgar's decision.

PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO THE LATE GEO. CLARK

Odd Fellows in Charge of Funeral Service

The funeral services of the late George Clark, one of the early settlers of this State and known and highly respected by many in all walks of life, were held this afternoon under the auspices of the Odd Fellows.

The Rev. J. N. Boyd of the Union Street Presbyterian Church conducted services at the late home, 1676 Goss street, the Odd Fellows later taking charge, according to the ritual of their order.

Mr. Clark was known to all early day business men for his great honesty; his word went among them without question, and in all his active life he fulfilled every promise he made.

Those in the younger generation who were fortunate enough to know him, found in him a true friend and one whose views of life were good to follow.

URGE CHANGE IN COASTWISE LAWS

Hawaiians Want Navigation Rules Modified in Interests of Their Commerce.

WASHINGTON. Aug. 31.—On his recent official trip to the Hawaiian Islands, Secretary Garfield discovered what he regards as two very important indications of improved conditions in the islands. One of these is a growing disposition to accept and practice a policy of restriction, restricting Oriental immigration and the other a willingness on the part of the owners of large tracts of land to part with a portion to those who may desire to purchase small areas.

The Hawaiians are beginning to get away from the idea that they can grow only sugar," he said, "and they are introducing many other crops to advantage, much for instance, as coffee, pineapples, tobacco and hemp. Already it is becoming apparent that the islands will be able to do with the surplus."

What they shall do with the surplus, they naturally look to the United States as their best market but the navigation laws much against them.

The extension of the coastwise provisions of these laws to the islands renders it almost impossible to utilize the foreign steamers which ply between the islands and the main land and domestic vessels are not available.

NEW YORK. Aug. 31.—Although Rabbi Wolinsky, of Brooklyn, took unto himself a third wife three months ago, it has only become known to his friends and neighbors, and it even came as news to his children, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, great-great-grandchildren, and great-great-great-grandchildren.

Rabbi Wolinsky is a white-bearded patriarch, who has passed one hundred and six summers, and hopes to pass several more in continual bliss.

The rabbi's latest wife was a Mrs. Shinnay R. Shinski, widow of a former friend of the aged man. About a year ago Shinski died. And as the second Mrs. Wolinsky had been dead only a short time, the widow and the widow sympathized with each other.

LANGDON'S BROTHER-IN-LAW, AS 'GUM-SHOE,' MAKES ERROR

Gets $5 a Day for Services in Which He Tangles Date

(Special to The Tribune.)

SAN FRANCISCO. Aug. 31.—The task of securing a jury to try Abram Rue on a charge of bribing ex-Supervisors John J. Fury in connection with the overhead trolley franchise, was resumed in Judge Lawlor's court this morning with one juror temporarily passed.

The courtroom was crowded with spectators, every seat being taken and many persons being forced to stand. Assistant District Attorneys Henry and O'Gara, together with "Gumshoe" Burns, occupied the prosecution table and Attorneys Aach and Murphy, appeared for Rue.

Heney announced that he wanted to examine further into the state of mind of James Guifffrey, who was passed temporarily by both sides on Thursday.

LANGDON'S BROTHER-IN-LAW.

He then called William H. Connell to the witness stand. Connell stated that he was a brother-in-law of William H. Langdon, and entered the employ of William J. Burns on June 28. He said he called on Juror Guifffrey on June 28 and asked him what he thought of the graft prosecution, hereupon he claims the juror replied in part, referring to the defendant under indictment:

"I would send the whole d— lot to jail. I am for the prosecution and

DIRECT PRIMARY BILL TO BE DRAWN

Senator L. A. Wright of San Diego Will Prepare Proposed

SAN DIEGO. Aug. 31.—Senator L. A. Wright of this city has been appointed by the direct primary league of California to prepare and introduce a new direct primary election bill. It will be prepared this fall and introduced at the next session of the Legislature.

Albert Schoenover, a Democrat and law partner of Wright and also a member of the executive committee of the direct primary league, will aid in drafting the law which will be submitted probably several times to the executive committee before final introduction. Senator Wright is joint author and sponsor for the proposed direct primary constitutional amendment, which it is presumed will pass, paving the way for the bill which is now to be prepared.

fact that Connell had interviewed a man named Ross, a juror, within the last few days, and had been sent to him by R. C. Schindler, a Burns man.

HENRY ALARMED.

Here Burns and Heney had a hurried conversation which resulted in the latter entering a protest to the questioning. Heney said he was trying to show that men were trying to get on the jury who had no business there and that Guifffrey had sworn he had never talked about the prosecution, whereas he had in fact spoken very decidedly on the question to Connell.

FATHER CARAHER TO ASK REMOVAL OF BIGGY

Charges Police Chief With Al-lowing Women in Pacific-Street Saloons.

SAN FRANCISCO Aug. 31.—Inocened at the action of Chief of Police Biggy and the police commission in extending the Barbary Coast district west of Kearny street by granting 11 leases to allow women in the resorts of notorious Pacific street saloon-keepers Father Caraher of St Francis parish announced yesterday that he would take a leading part in a movement to demand Biggy's removal from office.

"It is no excuse that Biggy is honest and that he means well," said Father Caraher. "He is riding the administration and this part of the city by his methods, and he must either be deposed at once or we shall take radical action to secure his removal. He is doing the administration more harm than any other man and unless the administration deprives him of his office we will be forced to attack the whole administration at the next election.

INFAMOUS OUTRAGE. "The reopening of Pacific street west of Kearny with Biggy's sanction is an outrage, it is infamous. Biggy is riding to his fall, but he hasn't far to go down to his level. Biggy is giving his sanction to the maintenance of methods in this district which I think that Rue of Dillon were abominated for, except that Biggy isn't accused of receiving money. He is, however, violating the law and his oath of office by his actions, and he ought to be indicted.

By refusing to check this evil Biggy spreads it. I am glad to see that Police Commissioner Swett stands against Biggy and the rest of the commission in this matter and he deserves the thanks of the entire North Beach district. Three or four months ago I arranged to discuss this very thing with the Mayor.

WOULD CLEAN OUT

"Several other priests, Protestant clergymen and laymen accompanied me and Mayor Taylor allied Biggy and the members of the police commission into the conference. I don't think any definite promises were made at that time by the police commission, but they all agreed to understand that Pacific street west of Kearny would be kept clean. Biggy, as I remember, would not admit that women were allowed in any of those places. I have seen women there myself, however. I have seen fallen women pick up their skirts to step over little children playing on the sidewalk. They are allowed even north of Broadway. That is not all.

THUGS HARBORED. "The thugs, robbers and assassins are coming in and settling in Biggy's district. To sanction such a thing invites them to come to a place of concealment, and it offers to the policemen of the district the greatest temptation in the world to accept bribes. I expect to appear personally before the police commission next Tuesday night to fight this infamous outrage, and I know that others will join me in demanding that this evil be made no worse."

SECRETARY OF THE STATE PRISON BOARD IS DEAD

Brainard F. Smith, Prominent Politician, Dies Suddenly.

SAN FRANCISCO Aug. 31.—Brainard Fowler Smith, for twenty years secretary of the State Board of Prison Directors, well known politician and citizen, died suddenly yesterday morning at the Hotel Napa in this city. As no doctor was in attendance the case was investigated by the coroner's office, although it is known that heart disease from which Smith had suffered for years was the cause of his death.

Smith had many friends, but his death will be mourned most by the inmates of Folsom and San Quentin penitentiaries. He was their friend counselor and intercessor and was reviled by even the most hardened prisoners. When the prison made arrangements for liberty in 1902, establishing a sentinel and carrying off Warden Wilkinson, none offered to touch Smith.

Smith was sixty-one years of age and came from the East twenty-five years ago. He was married and has a son thirteen years of age. He was a member of the Bohemian Club and belonged to the Elks, who will have charge of the funeral arrangements.

MADDENED ITALIAN USES KNIFE TO FIGHT OFFICERS

Husband of "Queen" Slashed by Opponent.

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Joseph Carro, husband of Annie Carlo, queen of Little Italy, is thought to be dying at St. Luke's hospital as a result of being slashed with a knife last night. His assailant, Antonio Patosso, was arrested after being dragged from beneath a bed in a house where he had sought refuge. The two had long been enemies.

Patosso attacked the detectives who had arrested him, and in the struggle, chairs and other furniture were overturned and the maddened Italian attempted repeatedly to use his knife.

POLICE BAR SALOME DANCE FROM THEATER

SAN FRANCISCO Aug. 31.—The re-production of the Salome dance yesterday was ordered from the program of the Theatorium, Haight and Cole streets, by the police department, on the grounds of immorality.

During the three nights the dance was produced by the moving-picture show the theater was so crowded and about the doors and sidewalks that it was necessary for a policeman to be stationed there to keep the passage clear along the street for pedestrians.

Captain Anderson of the park police station decided that the picture should no longer be shown to the public.

PRESIDENT IS NOT TO VISIT SAN FRANCISCO

OYSTERS BAY, Aug. 31.—President Roosevelt has declined the invitation to attend the Trans-Mississippi Congress at San Francisco, beginning October 6. The report that the President had accepted an error.

S. F. WOULD HAVE TO PAY HOME COMPANY $2,750,000

That Is If Phone Franchise Should Be Forfeited.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Should the San Francisco Board of Supervisors declare the franchise of the Home Telephone Company forfeited, the city must pay to the company a matter of $2,750,000 already expended in good faith on the plant.

Such, at least, is the opinion of Judge John F. Dillon, who has just passed upon the legality and sufficiency of the city's municipal bonds.

When Dr. Ferdinand Butterfield took and appealed to Attorney-General Webb to bring suit to declare it void, he set up many reasons why the action should be pressed. The Home company in some alarm, sought the advice of Judge Dillon of New York.

The city also had submitted to Judge Dillon its issue of municipal bonds, and he declared them sound.

But now has come along the opinion of the same legal authority that the Home franchise is sound notwithstanding the bribery and irregularities cited, and he concludes that should the municipality now declare the franchise invalid it must restore the status quo.

That is, it must pay the corporation back where it was before it began to spend money in good faith on the strength of its franchise.

Thus the corporation attorney will jab into the supervisors when they consider Dr. Butterfield's opinion to bring suit to have the franchise declared void.

Interest Extended Over The Entire Country

Great Geographical Puzzle Proves a Merry Fun Maker

Everybody has turned out to be students of geography. Never before has such intimate knowledge of the lakes, mountains and cities of California been known. Every bookstore and railway office in Oakland and California has been besieged with buyers for guides and maps. THE TRIBUNE'S Great Geographical Puzzle Contest has at last ended.

Thousands of answers have been received and still the mail comes in. Before the last edition of THE TRIBUNE on the day on which coupon 60 was pulled, was out and delivered, the merry contestants were here in the office waiting to clip coupons and file answers.

From Chicago and Portland and Los Angeles came answers by special delivery. The business manager's telephone rang incessantly the last week wanting to know the winners, but the patient committee on awards toiled on. The character of prizes awarded proved a big drawing card, when silverware from Morton's is one of the prizes, and all the others are equally valuable and representative. You can imagine the keen delight the housewife and school-girl take in winning.

The entire contest was marked with contentment and thorough understanding, only a few explanations being required.

Many of THE TRIBUNE'S country subscribers wrote for a little better explanations, and we take pleasure in presenting the list of successful winners and know that they have worked assiduously to solve the puzzles.

Much care was observed by many contestants in the manner of sending in answers. The work of Mrs. F. W. Guirey of Oakland is deserving of mention. The answers were returned in a handsome portfolio nicely embellished in water-colors on fine card-board. Major John C. Jenkins showed rare skill also in the manner of binding answers. Mrs. Minnie Seet of Alameda is an expert with pen, as her answers show. E. H. Galligan of Golden Gate avenue, San Francisco, bound his in a clever manner.

Hazel Gage of Aldine avenue, Chicago, Ill., was a good guesser, but was a trifle late with her answers.

The following is a list of the hard-working contestants who have guessed the nearest correctly and filed answers the earliest:

MAKES HIT IN HER DIRECTOIRE AT THE BELL

Maud Rockwell Wins Admiration
—Many Other Good Numbers on Bill.

Director's gowns may not become the most popular dress for street wear, but if they are employed exclusively for stage dress and will be worn of the type of Maud Rockwell, one may look for their instant adoption. Miss Rockwell is at the Bell Theater this week in a repertoire of songs and in the big hit of a bill brimming over with features to Ott, Nelson and Eddie in "Nancy a Doctor," give twenty minutes of real fun in their story of the German, Fritz Magie, and his adventures in the hands of Sue Bratto and Eddie Tait. The comedy sketch is a dead sure winner.

The introduction of the song hit "Milwaukee" met with appreciative applause.

A most remarkable act is that of June Salmo who many Oaklanders knew as Boyd Campbell, he having been born and raised in this city. This is his first visit to his native city in twelve years and his welcome home was a cordial appreciation. His extraordinary contortions of his body are the most complex of any public performer in his line.

BUST IMITATIONS

Terley, in bust imitations of much educational value. Terley who poses and is assisted by a fair model, presents a number of bust imitations of the world's famous characters, such as Caesar, Napoleon, Bonaparte, General Grant, Pope Leo and others.

The Misses Ester and Webb in the "Acress and the Maid" present a musical potpourri of songs, monologue and light comedy. The maid made the big hit of the act in her reproduction of Marie Dressler's drinking song.

The Alfred Trio, New York singers and dancers, in which Alvaro, Thomas and Alfred score a big hit, is a high class dancing act in which the light footed trio execute some clever steps both singly and in concert.

WIRELESS 'PHONE IS SUCCESSFUL

Invention of Oakland Youth Who Was Killed Perfected by Stanford Student.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY. Aug. 31.—The experiments in wireless telephony which have been carried on for the past two months by C. F. Elwell, a graduate of the electrical engineering department of the University, have proved so satisfactory that the invention is now an assured success, and the young engineer is confident that only more powerful apparatus is necessary to make the system available for all distances and uses to which the wire less phone is now put.

The stations now being used by Elwell in his experimental work are three-fourths of a mile apart and messages are daily transmitted this distance with very simple apparatus reaching the receiving station with greater clearness and more distinctly than the ordinary telephone message. A press representative inspected the station yesterday and for half an hour listened to the voice of the sending operator, who was nearly a mile away. Every word came clearly and distinctly and without the metallic vibration found in the common telephone.

INVENTED BY OAKLANDER.

The wireless telephone which Elwell has been developing was invented in May, 1904, by Francis McCarty of Oakland, then a youth of only sixteen years, who worked out the principles in his own laboratory and secured his patents before making his invention known to any other than the members of his immediate family. There came the accidental death of the young inventor, who was killed at the corner of Fourth and Broadway in Oakland on May 11, 1906.

Common wireless telephones are used for both the sending and receiving stations. The sending apparatus consists of a transmitter connected with a set of dry cells and a condenser sending a spark between the two electrodes. The vibrations of the voice in the transmitter make this spark conform to the voice vibrations, and the Hertzian waves thus formed travel to the receiving station where they are caught by a detector consisting of a globe of mercury between two steel cylinders with regular telephone receivers attached.

CUSTOM RATES TO BE CONSIDERED BY COMMITTEE

Will Find Out What Changes
Are Necessary and Desirable.

WASHINGTON. Aug. 31.—The work which has been begun by Senator Burrows' sub committee on the administration of the proposed tariff revision will be followed by similar labor by another sub committee of the Senate committee on finance of which Senator Hopkins of Illinois is chairman. Hopkins' committee is composed of himself and Senators Burrows, Payne, Money and Taft. To this committee has been entrusted the great burden of the labor of preparing a bill for the Senate as it is directed to consider what changes in the custom rates are desirable and to secure proof of the relative cost of production in the United States and other competing countries.

While in Washington recently attending the meeting of the Burrows committee Senator Hopkins stated that he would not call his organization together until some time during the fall. In the meantime, he said, he will call and communicate with state legislatures and associations to procure such information for him as they can through their representatives abroad relative to the cost of production in foreign countries with a view to supplying the committee with the best information possible in conducting its comparisons.

BITTEN BY RATTLER, CUTS OPEN LEG, BINDS SNAKE'S FLESH ON WOUND

LOS ANGELES. Aug. 31.—Bitten by a rattlesnake in the calf of the right leg in the Santa Ana mountains last Saturday, John McCormick, a rancher of Grapeland, saved his life by raking an incision with his pocket knife, thus letting the wound bleed freely enough for the poison to flow out. Following an old theory, he also inserted a piece of the gun and cut a piece of flesh out of its butt and bound it to the wound. He bled it tightly and walked seven hours before he reached his ranch where he could receive medical treatment. Dr. S. A. King was called from Los Angeles to attend McCormick. When he arrived he found McCormick was suffering from a slight poisoning. Dr. King declares that McCormick saved his life by his own treatment. SCORE SUCCESS IN PLAY WRITTEN BY CRESSY

Franklyn Underwood and Miss Slosson Form Center of Attraction at Orpheum.

Professor's Glasses

The professor who instructs a class throws hard work on his eyes. He must read his notes and at the same time scrutinize closely the faces of those whom he would instruct, that he may be sure they understand the lesson he is imparting. Where the lecturer is advanced in years he is under the necessity either of using reading glasses—putting them on whenever he consults his notes, and taking them off whenever he looks at a distance—or he must wear two pairs of glasses, or he must wear the old-style far-and-near glass with its unsightly pieces pasted on and ugly seams across it.

In such cases the Kryptok is a blessing, indeed. It avoids the trouble of putting reading glasses off and on. It eliminates the two-pair-of-glasses nuisance. Vision is clear in one pair of faultless unmarred glasses. We make them.

CHARLES BRADSHAW,
Who Appears in "Fix in a Fix."

Interest in yesterday's performance at the Orpheum centered around Franklyn Underwood and Miss Frances Slosson, who appeared in a sketch written especially for them by William Cressy. Like all of Cressy's works, it was full of pleasing humor and clever situations.

The play is entitled "Mrs. Goddard of Ioplant." Miss Slosson takes the part of Mrs. Goddard, in adventures, while Underwood plays Phineas Fisher, a janitor, and George Bloomquist is cast as Charles Edward O'Sweeney from Philadelphia.

ASTOUGH JANITOR.

Underwood as a tough janitor may seem rather strange to local theatergoers, but he does the work well, and calls forth many a scream of laughter.

Charles Bradshaw and his company produce a laughable sketch, "Fix in a Fix." Bradshaw is a clever comedian, but his company is not up to him.

The Big City Quartet made a great hit at the Orpheum yesterday, and the basso, Gus Reed, sings "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep" in splendid voice.

MONKEY ACROBATS.

Rafin's monkeys, acrobats perform some unique feats and are better trained than the majority of simians that appear in vaudeville.

Locals and strangers, holdovers from last week, introduce an amusing feature on second night that brings down

PRESIDENT WILLIAMS' SEES U. S. ATHLETES

Olympic Heroes Greeted at Sagamore Hill by Roosevelt,
Who Gives Each Enthusiastic
Handshake.

ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 31.—Just as ideal weather favored the Olympic heroes today when they paraded up Sagamore Hill and received the official welcome home by the President of the United States as on Saturday when they were acclaimed with the cheers of thousands in New York city. Each of the visitors were introduced to the President by the American commissioner, James E. Sullivan.

The President grasped their hands in an enthusiastic handshake and had a word of congratulation to say. The men plainly showed their pleasure at the high praise the President bestowed upon them.

WAITING FOR ATHLETES.

It was almost 11 o'clock when the steamer bringing the men from New York was sighted. As the vessel passed the club house of the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht Club a gun boomed a welcome. It was only a short time afterward that the entire party was landed with marching in a body to Sagamore Hill. The president was waiting on the veranda and greeted them. The President's remarks were brief and to the point. The ceremonies occupied only a short time and then refreshments were served to the party.

After the reception the party re-embarked for New York.

HOTEL GUESTS PANIC WHEN BLAZE STARTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Some of the guests in the fashionable Majestic Hotel were thrown into a state of alarm at an early hour this morning when the cry of fire was raised by a citizen who observed sparks coming from a chimney.

The fire department was called out and the blaze, which had been caused by a defective flue, was quickly extinguished.

ALASKA GRAPHITE COMPANY

Offers the Public 60,000 Shares of Its Capital Stock at Twenty-five (25c) U.S. per Share.

This company controls probably the largest deposit of GRAPHITE on the American continent, running high in percentage of carbon.

The world offers a ready market for all the GRAPHITE of all grades that this company can produce at good profit-paying prices.

GRAPHITE for FOUNDRY FACINGS, PAINT, CRUCIBLE WORK, LUBRICANTS, etc. The company has secured a factory site and proposes to erect and equip a mill on Oakland Harbor for grinding and refining the product of its mines, and OFFERS FOR SALE for this purpose SIXTY THOUSAND (60,000) shares of its capital stock at TWENTY-FIVE (25c) CENTS PER SHARE. Par value $1.00 per share.

This is not merely a prospect. We have a mine in operation and are producing. Last season we made a large shipment to this market and are working a force of men this season and will arrange to have the mines worked throughout the coming winter. A shipment will be made this fall and a large one in the spring by the first vessels returning from the north.

We believe the price of this stock will advance to one dollar per share as soon as the mill is in operation.

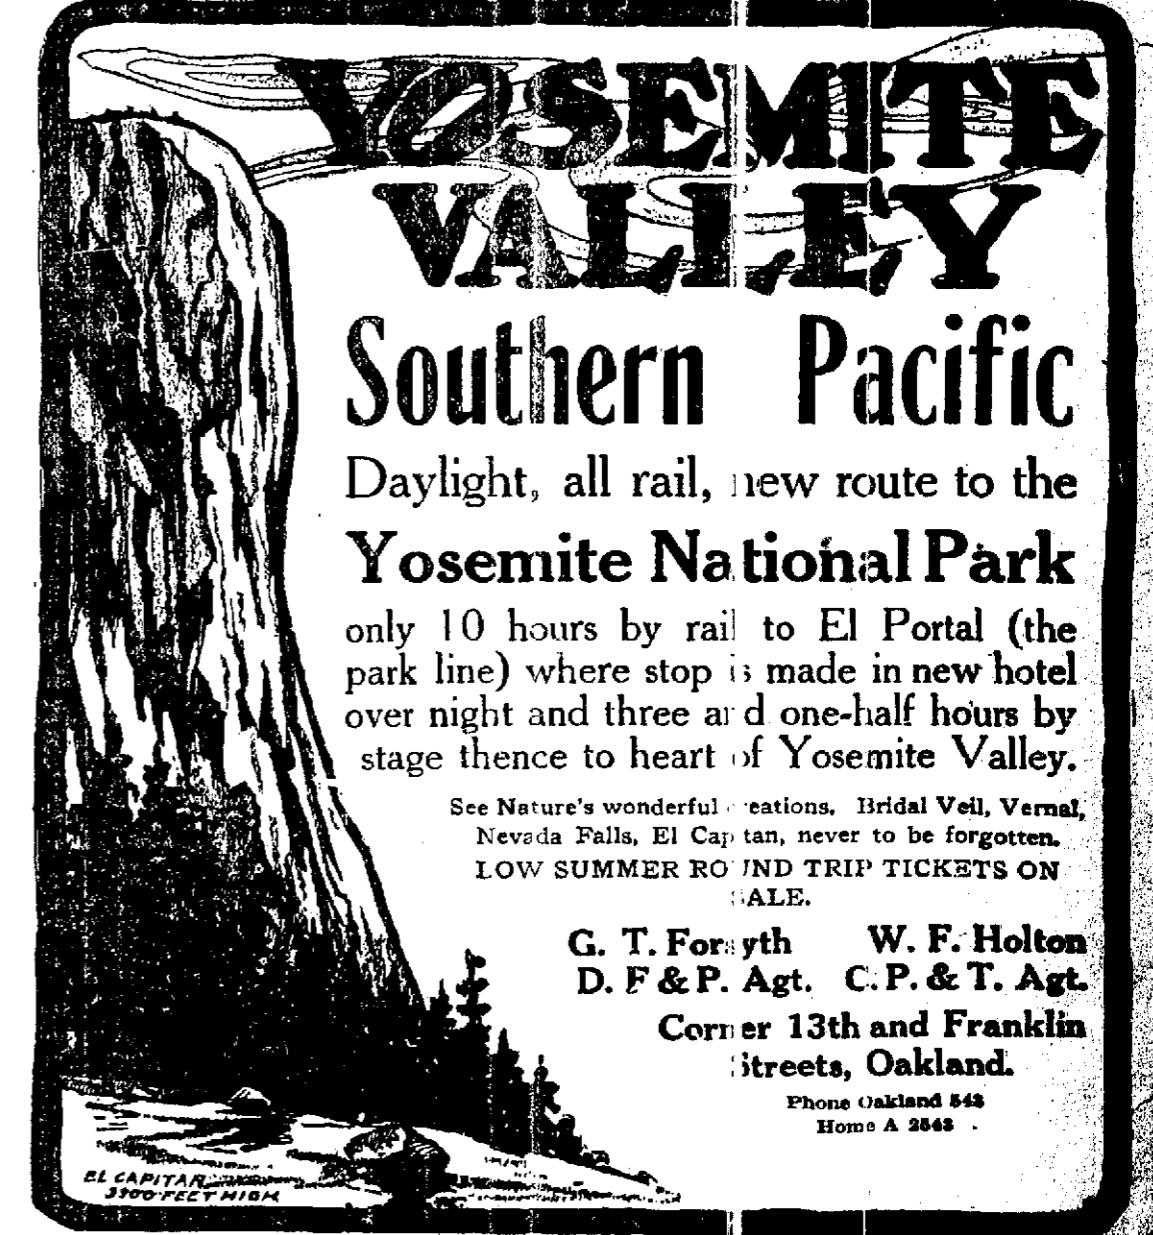

There is no speculative feature connected with this enterprise, but an investment for regular dividend-paying profits. We have the GRAPHITE, we have the market. We have honest management. We want a few thousand dollars with which to complete our plant for refining, etc. Every dollar of the stockholders' money will be carefully and judiciously expended.

Samples of our GRAPHITE may be seen and full information obtained at the office of the company,
